Dulles to Retire From C.I.A. by End of Year

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Allen W. Dulles will retire as director of the Central Intelligence Agency by the end of this year, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger confirmed Monday.

Probable retirement date for the brother of the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will be some time in November, it was understood. The departure time was fixed by Allen Dulles himself when he agreed to continue in the C. I. A. post temporarily at the request of President Kennedy following the latter's election. Mr. Dulles became the agency's chief during the Eisenhower administration.

Fowler Hamilton, of Greenwich, Conn., a Wall St. Lawyer, is scheduled to succeed Mr. Dulles. Mr. Hamilton, former Justice Department chief counsel and a Democrat, is a member of the New York law firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Friendly and Hamilton.
